[From Our Regular Correspondent.] Washington, January 18 .- The members of the House Banking and Currency Committee are watching an opportunity to make fight on Buckner's bill to substitute United States Treasury notes for the national bank notes now in circulation, and they expect to get the bill np early in February at the ate. This bill will give rise to an able and animated discussion. Mr. Hartzell is instructed by the committee to offer his silver come before the House to which it is germaine. This bill puts silver on a perfect equality with gold, and its provision authorizing the issue of silver certificates for postal-savings bill reported some time ago to the House by the Banking and Currency by a large majority favors it. Mr. Philany individual amount to ten dollars he shall have issued to him a bond for that amount, bearing 3.65 per cent. interest per annum, payable quarterly. Bonds will also be issued for any multiple of ten. These bonds, Mr. Phillips thinks, will pass current among the people, because they have the advantage over the greenbacks of being interest-bearing.
